

4A'S ART & LITERACY WORK

In Year 4, we have been researching the life and art work of Frida Khalo. Students, inspired by her paintings and techniques, produced their self-portraits.

In Literacy, we have been working on the book 'Journey' by Aaron Becker, an imaginative adventure story whose elaborate illustrations inspire wonder, careful examination and multiple reads.

Apart from Art, Literacy has also been one of our highlights of the last weeks; we have been 'reading' the wordless book 'Journey' and despite the fact there are no words in this book, students have embraced the story and have produced some wonderful sentences using a variety of literary techniques such as alliteration, pathetic fallacy, personification and metaphors.

Follow the girl on an elaborate flight of fancy in a wondrously illustrated, wordless picture book about self-determination — and unexpected friendship. A lonely girl draws a magic door on her bedroom wall and through it escapes into a world where wonder, adventure, and danger abound. Read some of our sentences below...

"A dark, foggy world of ghostly vibes and a soul of stone. A dull, bat black and insipid room."
- Alfred

"A room where even the clocks look weary and fatigued. The paintings are drained and worn; the blanket is opaque and lethargic."
- Ania

"A clear and elegant garden of luminescent fireflies where all the good memories go back to the girl's head and immediately create her excitement." - Almudena

"A headdress of golden domes stood on top of the gigantic gold-plated palace."

-Daniel

"Overhead the clouds, flew a magestic, magnificent, amazing bird; a combination of pink and purple; a magenta bird. The fuchsia, gigantic bird was moving its wings in and out through the cotton candy clouds like an aeroplane going up and down in the cloudy sky. A glorious song, a natural, cheerful and calm tune like a sunset's waves."

-Cloe

"The shimmering sunlight of the jewelled forest is like a path created only for her. She entered the trees cheerfully, twisting, whilst flying, letting her spirit go through the soft melody of the cold air that nature gave, weaving, floating and dancing happily in the magical world."

- Viviana

"As the day stretched, an elegant palace grew from the water like a giant aquatic plant. The fortress rose so quickly that the girl blinked and it was already up."

- Sergio
